SHIFTING SNOW PLAGUES DRIVERS

Storm Brings New England To Its Knees

Boston Loss Estimated At $10-Million

United Press International

Bitter cold and gale-force winds lashed New England today in the wake of a multi-million-dollar snowstorm which sent dozens of records tumbling.

The storm — the worst in New England history — took a grim toll in lives and property as it swept coast to coast.

At least 149 persons in 30 states and the District of Columbia were killed by the vicious wintry onslaught. Massachusetts reported 22 dead, Pennsylvania had 16, Connecticut 14, New York 13 and New Jersey 10.

Property damage ran into the millions and millions of dollars. Boston officials estimated their city alone would spend 10 million dollars repairing damage and clearing up 11-foot drifts that brought the city to its knees.

The storm crushed the Southland under a numbing burden of ice, coated New York City and other eastern metropolises with a strait jacket of ice and snow and sent temperatures tumbling far below zero throughout the Midwest.

The storm blew out to sea today, but snow flurries and 35-mile-an-hour winds plagued exhausted northeastern workers struggling to clear the drifts.

The murderous near-blizzard hit hardest in:

—New England: Snow depth totaled 19.7 inches in Boston, breaking all records in the 90-year history of the Weather Bureau there. Schools, stores, factories and airports shut down tight. Boston streets were impassable.

States of emergency were declared in the Massachusetts towns of Dighton, Fitchburg, Marshfield, Taunton and Waltham. Falmouth reported 22 inches of snow in 24 hours Friday.

Connecticut received 18 inches of snow — the heaviest amount in four years. A fire in Waterford killed three children because firemen couldn't get through snow-packed roads to their home.

In Rhode Island, Gov. Christopher Del Sesto called on the National Guard to help storm-stricken areas.

—New York: Ten thousand battled through the night to clear some of the world's most famous streets of 16 inches of hard-packed snow. Up to two feet fell in the city's suburbs and fast-freezing slush hampered clean-up operations throughout the area.

Commuter buses and trains returned to a semi-normal schedule, but at least 600 flights had been cancelled at Idlewild and LaGuardia Airports.

—The East: Sussex County in northern New Jersey reported 26 inches of snow. Schools closed in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D. C.

Temperatures dipped to their lowest reading of the year near Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Baltimore. Melting snow in Washington grounded out an electric feeder line and threw the first floor of the Capitol into darkness.

—The South: Probably hardest hit of all were Southern states unused to such wintry goings-on. Entire towns were isolated without electricity, telephones, heat, and, in some cases, food.

National Guard and Red Cross workers battled through heavy drifts and ice-slicked roads to reach the stricken communities.

—The Midwest: Temperatures fell below zero as far south as southern Missouri and the Weather Bureau predicted two more days without relief. Sioux City, Iowa, reported 22 degrees below zero. Watertown, S. D. had 19 below. Omaha, Neb., 11 below; Bradford, Ill., 11 below; Springfield, Ill., 9 below; St. Louis, 8 below and Dodge City, Kans., 1 below.

—The Southwest: Air Force planes saved 50 Navajo Indian families from starving by dropping food packages into their isolated reservation near Window Rock, Ariz.

The families had been trapped by six-foot snows for more than a week. A spokesman for the tribe said the plight was "worse than at first was thought."

2 Injured In Skid Accident On Route 1

Two persons were injured last evening when another car skidded out of control and crashed into their automobile.

Treated for minor injuries at Lower Bucks County Hospital were Warren Hunsberger, 21, of 41 Harrison Ave., Morrisville, and Linda Klebe, 17, of 53 Mayflower Road, Mill Creek Falls, Levittown. They were taken to the hospital by the Delaware Valley Rescue Squad.

Falls Township police report Hunsberger was driving east on Route 1 at 7:40 p.m. when another car, operated by Alan B. Hamerman, 22, of Newark, N.J., skidded into his car. The girl was a passenger in Hunsberger's car.

Ike's Throat Sore

RAMEY AIR FORCE BASE, Puerto Rico, (UPI)

— President Eisenhower, tired and complaining of hoarseness and a sore throat, canceled out his golf date at the Dorado Club near San Juan today to rest and relax at this U.S. Air Force base.

And, according to presidential press secretary James Hagerly, there was a "good possibility" that Eisenhower might put off his return to icy Washington from Sunday to Monday.

Eisenhower's voice was noticeably hoarse when he addressed a meeting of the Caribbean Assembly Friday. He attributed it to his speech making during his South American tour. Members of his staff stressed that it was not the result of a cold.

The President, who stopped off here to rest up after his grueling 10-day whirlwind visit to four Latin American countries, originally had planned to return early today to the Dorado golf course for another round.

However, he switched plans soon after returning to this base Friday night.

Hagerly said only that Eisenhower had decided he would rather remain at Ramey for rest and relaxation than go to Dorado, 60 miles east of here by helicopter.

Ramey officials who talked with the President said he was complaining of a sore throat when he went to his quarters for dinner Friday night with his son, Maj. John Eisenhower.

John later met his wife Barbara, and their four children on their arrival by jet plane from Charleston, S.C., to spend the weekend with their father and grandfather.

Germ Threat In Agadir

AGADIR, Morocco (UPI) — Authorities ordered all but a handful of American and Moroccan engineers and sanitary squads out of Agadir today because of the increasing threat of disease.

Hyenas and jackals slunk in the countryside to join the hordes of rats swarming through the debris where thousands of bodies still are buried. The rats were so vicious they attacked some rescue workers.

Only one living survivor was pulled Friday from the wreckage of Agadir, razed Monday night by earthquakes, tidal wave and fire. There was no way of knowing for certain how many others remained pinned under the debris.

A Moroccan government spokesman said the final death toll probably would be between 5,000 and 7,000. Casablanca newspapers estimated at least 10,000 died.

To Take Time Out

Civil Rights Fight Past 115-Hour Mark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The record-breaking Senate civil rights filibuster droned toward a time out later today while key lawmakers worked behind the scenes to arrange some compromise that might break the deadlock.

Chairman Thomas C. Hennings said he hoped his Senate Rules Committee would agree Monday on Negro voting guarantees that might help end the day-and-night talkathon, now past the 115-hour mark.

The Missouri Democrat, who made his first appearance at the debate Friday after being out two weeks with a chest infection, called the committee to a meeting Monday morning. He said, "I hope we can come up with something."

At the same time, the Democratic and Republican leaders held private discussions with their colleagues on the possibility of a compromise that would draw strong support from civil rights backers and less fierce opposition from Southerners.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) proposed at dawn that the Senate adjourn until noon Monday and called for a vote. But he quickly withdrew the motion when Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) demanded a quorum call.

"Brr, it's cold," says 2½-year-old Melinda Brown of 236 Garfield St., Bristol, as she places her gloved hand in a snow drift. Nine inches of snow fell in this area amid sub-freezing temperatures during the worst snow storm to hit Bucks County in two years. (Courier-Times Photo)

Hint Based In U.S.

Saboteurs Blamed In Cuba Explosion

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuba today

blamed sabotage for two thunderous explosions which wrecked a French munitions ship with heavy loss of life here Friday and there were hints the saboteurs were based in the United States.

Estimates of the casualty toll ranged as high as 75 to 100 persons killed and 170 injured, but veteran reporters thought the toll would be closer to 65. Radio VOZ announced today 54 bodies had been found and 33 identified. Six French crew members were reported missing and several dockworkers were feared lost when blown into the water.

Labor leaders called a nationwide general strike today except for such essential services as utilities to protest the "sabotage." President Osvaldo Dorticos proclaimed 24 hours of national mourning.

A mass burial was being held for the victims at midday and Premier Fidel Castro — who narrowly escaped injury himself — and Dorticos were speaking. Dorticos in a speech early today indicated saboteurs were to blame.

Castro and other members of the cabinet took turn standing honor guard by the caskets of the dead during the night.

Dorticos said after an emergency midnight cabinet meeting the ministers expressed their "sorrow and profound indignation in the face of this incident which has all the characteristics of a barbaric and criminal act against the people of Cuba."

The hint that saboteurs might have come from the United States came from Jose Pardo Llado, a popular radio commentator on government stations and a long-time Uncle Sam biter.

"Indications are that this is another criminal and vandalistic move planned and executed by the same counter-revolutionary forces which burn our cane-fields," he said.

This was a reference to Cuba's frequent charges that Florida-based light planes dropped incendiary bombs on the Cuban cane-fields. The United States admitted one such attack in which (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

Finch, Carole Sweating Out Jury Verdict

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Are Carole Tregoff and Dr. R. Bernard Finch the blood-stained slayers of "Macbeth" or possibly the star-crossed lovers of "Romeo and Juliet?"

A tense jury of seven women and five men returned today to ponder such a question. In the answer lies the fate of the mild-mannered physician and his emotion-wrought mistress.

The question was put in literary terms Friday shortly before the jury began deliberations to climax the sensational trial of Finch and Miss Tregoff, accused of slaying the doctor's wife. Prosecutor Fred N. Whicello referred to Miss Tregoff as a modern-day Lady Macbeth.

Like the character in the Shakespeare classic, Whicello said, "all the perfumes of Arabia" would not sweeten the hand of the red-haired beauty. The prosecutor said she could only cry futilely, "out damned spot," because her hand was figuratively (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

Mystery Sub Is Off Coast

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UPI) — An unidentified submarine has been spotted on the West Coast, Air Force officials said early today.

Officials of the air-sea rescue unit said there was little chance the report would be confirmed.

They said ships had been asked to report any suspicious sightings in the Point Roberts area in the Georgia Strait, where the sub was reported seen shortly before dusk Friday night.

Point Roberts, Wash., is a three-square mile area of U. S. territory on the southern most tip of a British Columbia peninsula.

Crews Doing Double Duty On Roads

Gusty winds, shifting drifting snows and frigid temperatures ganged up on motorists and highway crews last night in the wake of the season's worst snowstorm.

Roads that had been opened by crews yesterday were clogged again last night by drifting snows to plague motorists.

Temperature that dropped to a low of 15 last night put a slick glaze on some roads where snow had melted yesterday.

Plow Constantly

In Falls Township snow fighters were forced to constantly plow Hood Blvd., Fairless Hills, last night to keep it open.

Mill Creek Road, near Green Lane, Levittown, snared several cars yesterday afternoon as drifts piled up to almost two feet.

In Middletown Township, Durhan Road south of Frosty Hollow road was closed off last night by drifting snows. Drifts of two feet or more made a long stretch of this road impassable.

Main Arteries Open

Most roads however, were open and passable. The major roads such as Route 1 and Route 13 were mostly clear of snow and ice.

Back streets in most of the towns while passable were still causing headaches for motorists.

Falls Crash Injuries Two

A mother and daughter were injured early this morning when their car carrying a family of four skidded and crashed into a light standard on Trenton Road near Fairless Hills.

Admitted to Lower Bucks County Hospital for a compound fracture of the left leg was Mrs. Marie Acker, of 221 Stanford Road Fairless Hills, and Ruth Polly Acker, 13, who received head injuries. Both are listed as being in satisfactory condition today.

Treated and released were the father, Ephraim, 45, and a daughter, Pamela, 11.

The family was taken to the hospital by the Delaware Valley Rescue Squad.

The car, which was driven by the father, was badly damaged. Officers West Worsman and Gino Mattozzi of the Falls Township police investigated the accident.

Hit-Runner Strikes Man

A Bensalem farmhand was struck by a hit and run truck while walking on Hulmeville Road yesterday.

Arthur Lee Reynolds, 35, who works and lives on a farm owned by Steve Kowalski, 4037 Hulmeville Road, told Bensalem police he was walking west on Hulmeville Road at about 11 a.m., when a yellow truck travelling in the same direction, hit him on the left hip. The truck did not stop, he told police.

The accident occurred across from the Cecelia Snyder Junior High School, Bensalem.

Police said Reynolds walked with difficulty, but apparently had not been seriously injured.

Reynolds was taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital by the Bucks County Rescue Squad.

57th ABC Tourney Starts Tonight

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — The 79-day 57th annual American Bowling Congress tournament starts tonight with more than 30,000 bowlers and 5,716 teams competing.

4 Accidents Reported In

L. S'hampton

Drifting snows and slippery roads were responsible for four accidents within 2½ hours yesterday afternoon in Lower Southampton Township.

In one accident, police said, a woman driving a truck lost control of her vehicle and slammed head-on into an auto at Bridgetown Pike and Bristol Road at 4:45 p.m.

Fracture Nose

The woman, Adline Rife of Richboro, was taken to Holy Redeemer Hospital by the Trevoise Heights Rescue Squad. She was treated for a fractured nose and lacerations of the knees and right hand.

The driver of the auto, Kenneth F. Rhoads, 52, 329 Skyline Drive, Feasterville, was uninjured. Damages to both vehicles were estimated at $600 each. Officers Frank Walter and Richard Henshaw of the Lower Southampton police investigated the accident.

In another head-on collision, Leonard Pinky, 31, of 124 Forsythia Drive, Levittown, was taken to the Holy Redeemer Hospital with a possible fracture of the left elbow.

His auto collided with another car driven by Wilbur R. Dennis, 41, of 17 Willow Road, Levittown, at Bridgetown Pike north of Bristol Road. Dennis was uninjured.

Damages to both cars totaled $1,100. Investigating officers were Sgt. Frank Walter and Richard Henshaw.

A car driven by Charles J. Gaffney, 19, of 2384 Philmont Ave. Bethayres, hit a utility pole on Bridgetown Pike near Bristol Road, in a third accident at 3:10 p.m. Gaffney was unhurt.

Lower Southampton Police said that Gaffney had to pull off the road to avoid a head-on collision with another car.

Damage to Gaffney's vehicle was $375. Sgt. Curtis Brandenburger investigated the accident.

In another accident, at Street Road and Bustleton Pike, a car driven by William Sterner, 30 of Danville, Pa., collided with an auto operated by Leonard O'Neill, 1153 Hoover Ave., Feasterville.

Neither man was injured. Damages to each vehicle was estimated at $150.

Investigating officer was Richard Henshaw.

Payola Prober Demands Dick Clark Be Subpoenaed

Congressman Asks For An Early Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) demanded today that House investigators summon disc jockey Dick Clark to explain what he called the teen-age idol's "obvious quite serious" involvement in payola.

Bennett, senior Republican on the House payola investigating subcommittee, said he saw no reason why the ABC network star should not be subpoenaed to an early hearing.

"I'm going to keep pressing for this," Bennett vowed. "I don't see why the delay."

Bennett disclosed at a hearing Friday that an ABC affidavit to the subcommittee and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) showed Clark had a financial interest in 17 record and music publishing companies.

Bennett said there was information that Clark also took rings, fur coats and other valuable gifts as payola. Payola is a slang term generally meaning money paid to obtain favored broadcast treatment for a record.

ABC required Clark to get rid of his sideline music and record interests earlier this year on the ground that as a disc jockey, he was in a position to plug platters produced by his own firms.

FTC Chairman Earl J. Kintner, whose agency has been cracking down on payola, told the subcommittee the commission intended to explore fully Clark's business activities.

After questioning Kintner and Federal Communications Commission Chairman John C. Doerfer, the investigators adjourned until March 15 when they will hold a hearing on their legislative recommendations to stamp out deceptive radio-TV practices.

But there was speculation that the subcommittee would meet before then to consider Bennett's demand for an early hearing on Clark.

Defense: The only major speeches which interrupted the civil rights debate were Democratic criticisms of administration defense policies — and Republican answers. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) charged the administration was "gambling with our survival." He urged more military spending, even if it meant more taxes. Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) of the foreign relations committee declared that if President Eisenhower's defense decisions were wrong, the free world could "be lost in an afternoon."

Schools: Rep. Joe Holt (R-Calif.) failed in an attempt to tack on an anti-segregation amendment to the school construction bill. But not enough members of the House Education Committee showed up to vote. The amendment would require compliance with the Supreme Court school desegregation decisions in order to obtain federal aid.

A. Marlyn Moyer Jr., executive vice-president of the Treasury Savings and Loan Association, has been named a member of the budget committee.

Gallagher Asks Weikert Be Replaced

Today, State Representative James J. A. Gallagher (D. L. Bucks) called upon the governor to replace highway district engineer, S. Curtis Weikert.

Weikert, a Republican, is district engineer in Haverford and controls the amount of highway work scheduled for Bucks County.

Gallagher in his request to Gov. David Lawrence, stated, "that it was his understanding that Mr. Weikert had been in the employ of the highway dept. for almost 44 years, and that his long tenure is attributed to his allegiance to Republican boss of the state senate, Senator Harvey Taylor."

Gallagher informed the Governor, "that it is apparent that Mr. Weikert had not risen from behind his desk in his castle at Haverford for so many years that he probably thinks that Bucks County is just a quiet little rural county with horse and buggy roaming the by-ways."

Gallagher's request was concluded by urging the governor, "to replace Weikert with someone who will live and think in this century and recognize the many problems we face in a modern atomic age Bucks County."

Gallagher called upon Republican State Senator Keller and Republican Representatives Marguerite Kooker and Alan Williams Jr., "to use their influence with Taylor, to have Weikert replaced."

Gallagher stated to Keller, Kooker and Williams, "that he was sure that even though Weikert is a Republican, his apparent disregard for our highway problems was cause enough to replace him with a competent engineer, one who will recognize that Bucks County is no longer a rural county full of cows and horses, but a county bustling with activity in a modern world."

Hint Sabotage

Two men were killed and apologized officially.

Reports circulated in Havana Friday night that a light plane might have dropped a bomb on the French ship, the 5,000 ton La Coubre, which was unloading two million rounds of ammunition and grenades from Belgium for the Cuban revolutionary army.

These reports were discounted later and government sources hinted that a time bomb may have been used. The first explosion, at about 3 p.m. Friday, was below decks and killed an estimated 20 Cuban workers and 6 French crew members.

Smoke soared into the sky from the Pan American docks where the ship already had unloaded most of its cargo and Cuba mobilized to cope with the disaster. Firemen and rescue workers rushed to the scene with government officials.

A second explosion sounded nearly an hour later from the burning ship seconds after Premier Castro had flown over the scene in a helicopter.

Elvis Goes Back Into Civvies Today

FORT DIX, N.J., — (UPI) — Sgt. Elvis Presley leaves the all-shook-up Army behind today to return to the big time, the big money and the big beat of his civilian life.

The idol of the rock 'n' roll crowd will awaken to 5 a.m. reveille for the last time. He gets his separation papers about 8:30 a.m. and a final pay of $109.54 a half hour later.

His regular pay as a sergeant is $145.24, but his last Army money will be only for travel, a clothing allotment and food.

Elvis won't have to count the pennies too closely. He has nearly a million dollars in television and motion picture contracts awaiting him when he returns to civilian life.

Sigh Of Relief

The Army prepared to heave a collective sigh of relief. His superiors said Elvis made a fine soldier, but it got to be a problem protecting him from screaming fans and milling newsmen everywhere he appeared.

Presley even got a tribute last night from Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) Presley comes from Memphis, Tenn. and maintains a home there.

Kefauver, in a statement for the congressional record, said Presley may have been tempted to ask for special privileges when he was drafted.

"To his great credit, this young American became just another G.I. Joe," said the senator.

For his part, Elvis says the service was a good experience, but it's fine to be home.

Hair Toned Down

The Army toned down his hair, do somewhat. The 24-year-old singer used to wear his dark hair piled high in front and half falling over his forehead, with long sideburns.

Now he combs it in a sleek pompadour with short sideburns, and he said it will stay that way.

But not much else will change. Elvis made it clear when he arrived from Germany Thursday morning that he'll keep singing rock'n' roll music and swinging his hips to keep time.

"The movements are natural. I don't look on them as suggestive," he said.

Last Full Day

Presley spent his last full day in the Army yesterday reading magazines, listening to a radio and gossiping with barracks buddies who will join him in getting out of the military.

He appeared somewhat tense and tired after two days of almost continuous processing for separation.

Met Baritone Warren Dies On Stage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leonard Warren, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, fell unconscious and died on the stage in the second act of a gala performance of "La Forza Del Destino" Friday night.

An audience of nearly 4,000, including Mrs. Warren, gasped as the 48-year-old singer ended an aria with the words "Oh, gioia, oh, gioia." ("Oh joy, oh joy") turned for his exit and fell forward on his face.

Conductor Thomas Schippers froze on the podium. Tenor Richard Tucker rushed to his side and the curtain was rung down.

A swelling murmur of concern swept the audience during the second act intermission as reports from back stage filtered to the lobbies.

Warren failed to respond to emergency treatment. House physician Dr. Adrian Zornio had sped from his aisle seat when Warren fell shortly after 10 p.m. He pronounced him dead at 10:30. Zornio said it appeared Warren had suffered "a massive cerebral vascular hemorrhage."

In Fine Condition

The native New Yorker, who was one of the greatest baritones ever developed in the United States. He had been in fine condition with no history of illness, Met officials said.

The audience had been told immediately after the curtain went down that the performance would continue and substitute baritone Mario Sereni had been summoned. But when the house quivered for the third act, Met General Manager Rudolf Bing stepped out through the curtain.

"This," he began, "is one of the saddest nights in the history of the Metropolitan."

Low cries of "Oh, no. Oh, no," were heard from the audience.

"May I ask you all to rise," Bing continued, "in tribute to one of our greatest artists."

Many staunch fans of Warren's, who had watched his rise to stardom and great esteem, began to weep.
